RE: Grains Industry Code of Practice

Dear Aaron,

Thank you for your phone call and follow-up email on 14 September, 2017 referencing Grain Trade Australia (GTA) notice of intention to develop a registered specific grain industry code of practice for transport.

I would like to re-iterate some of the points we discussed, and in particular draw your attention to the point that GTA provides the broadest reach across the national grain supply chain and therefore is a suitable channel for raising awareness and implementing new and updated practices broadly across the grains industry.

About GTA

Grain Trade Australia (GTA) is a national association and is the focal point for the commercial grains industry within Australia. The role of GTA is to provide a framework across Industry to facilitate and promote the trade of grain. GTA facilitates trade and works to provide an efficient, equitable and open trading environment by providing leadership, advocacy and commercial services to the Australian grain value chain. GTA Members are responsible for over 95% of all grain storage and freight movements made each year in Australia. Over 95% of the grain contracts executed in Australia each year refer to GTA grain Trading Standards and/or Trade Rules.

GTA has established the Australian Grains Industry Code of Practice. All GTA Members are required to adhere to the Code of Practice. GTA Members are drawn from all sectors of the grain value chain from production to domestic end users and exporters. GTA's has over 270 organisations as Members. Their businesses range from regional family businesses to large national and international trading/storage and handling companies who are involved in grain trading activities, grain storage, human and stock feed milling. A list of GTA Members is attached

Existing Transport Code of Practice

GTA is committed to improving safety standards within the grain industry. As part its role and function GTA has developed a Grain Transport Code of Practice for the grain industry. This sits as part of GTA's broader Code of Practice for the management of grain within the Australian grain supply chain. The GTA Transport Code of Practice has linkages to the Grain Industry Code of Practice and can be made binding between agreeable parties using the GTA Bulk Freight of Goods Contract.

This existing code of practice requires review and modification to bring it in line with changing legislation.

GTA Process to Update the Transport Code of Practice

As part of the review of the existing Transport Code of Practice GTA has:

1. Researched changes and knowledge of NHVL

2. Engaged and consulted with industry
3. Attended the Safe Trucking and Supply Chain Ltd Technical Writers Workshop
4. Considered the merits of 'master codes' under development
5. Placed a Notice of Intention with the National Heavy Vehicle Regulator.

In terms of the NHVR and upcoming Chain of Responsibility legislation, it is GTA's belief a registered grain specific code of practice (supplementary to the master code) may best support its Members and the grain industry more broadly. The grain industry has some specific concerns with regards to risk, in particular:

1. The volumes of transport leaving primary producer properties without have been assessed for weight.
2. The smaller scale of a significant number of transport companies that operate in the grain industry who do not have ready access to sufficient resources and expertise to to develop customised risk management processes.

Suitability of Master Codes

It is GTA's view the master codes on their own may not support our Members and grains industry in these areas of risk as the master codes as outlined by safe Trucking and Supply Chains Ltd will only:

1. "Provide general examples of risk controls, so code adopters can develop a customised risk management process for their business".
2. "Act as a 'master code' that can be cross referenced by other registered industry code developers as the document that deals with 'common' risks involved in the operation of a heavy vehicle so, that these codes can deal in greater detail with safety risks specific to their industry".

Given this stated role of the master code, GTA is of the belief the risks, specific to the grain industry may not be adequately covered. Therefore, GTA's preference is to continue with the Notice of Intention process.

Notice of Intention

GTA understands NHVR process states it will assist in deriving an optimum outcome as twenty-eight days (during which GTA consults with a NHVR liaison officer) after the publication of the Notice of Intention, NHVR advises the developer either to:

- proceed with the Industry Code of Practice outlined in the Notice of Intention
- proceed with the Industry Code of Practice but in a different way, for example: with adjustments to its scope or structure, or in collaboration with others, or with other changes
- not proceed at all.

GTA welcomes the opportunity in the consultation phase when NHVR appoints a staff member to liaise and consult with the developer as this will provide an opportunity for GTA and NHVR to discuss and derive the optimum process to proceed with the grain Industry Code of Practice. This period will also allow GTA to provide information and demonstrate to the regulator that GTA is well positioned to perform this function on behalf of the grain industry.

I would therefore ask that NHVR reconsider its decision to not provide further consideration to GTA's application and Notice of Intention.

Yours sincerely,

Pat O'Shannassy
CEO
