Thank for the opportunity to make a submission on the Draft Gene Technology Amendment Bill.

1. About Grain Trade Australia

Grain Trade Australia (GTA) is a national member association and is the focal point for the commercial grain industry within Australia.

GTA has over 295 organisations as members. Their businesses range from regional family businesses to large national and international trading/storage and handling companies who are involved in grain trading activities, grain storage, grain marketing advisory services, processing grain for human consumption and stock feed milling. GTA Members are substantial employers, from the farm gate through to end point consumption, and notably in rural and regional Australia. Australia's grain is exported by GTA members. A full list of GTA Members in annexed to this submission.

GTA acknowledges the potential for gene technologies including GM and gene-edited crops to deliver benefits for Australian farmers, the environment and consumers in Australia and globally.

GTA's core focus is to 'facilitate trade' in the Australian grain industry. Its products and services, including the Australia Grain Industry Code of Practice, provides a self-regulatory framework across the grain industry to facilitate and promote the trade of grain within the Australian grain value chain.

GTA's Plant Breeding Innovation Committee provides advice and input in relation to new breeding technologies (NBTs). In relation to plant breeding innovation, GTA has developed the:

- Delivering Market Choice with GM Crops (built on the canola industry's Market Choice Framework developed in 2008); and
- Grain Industry Stewardship for New Technologies where Schedule 1 deals with NBTs.

These tools have been developed to ensure the introduction of these technologies into the supply chain is undertaken in a manner that does not disrupt trade.

GTA is also actively involved in industry discussions on these issues globally via membership of the International Grain Trade Coalition (IGTC), with harmonising of regulations a key focus.

GTA appreciates the opportunity to provide this submission and notes that our comments will be restricted to the legislation as it relates to plants and is focused on the principles and integration of technologies into the supply chain once approved. Individual GTA members, technology proponents and groups such as CropLife Australia are better placed to provide comment on the operational aspects of the Act as it relates to potential technologies seeking approval.

2. Comments on the proposed amendments to the Gene Technology Act

GTA is pleased to see progress on the proposed amendments to the Gene Technology Act (ACT) which follow from the Third Review of the National Gene Technology Scheme and subsequent consultation. It is pleasing that the Ministers have endorsed the preferred regulatory model, including risk-tiering.

At the time of this review GTA emphasised the need for the ACT to be modernised and future proofed and aligned with a science and risk-based set of principles. GTA supported the preferred regulatory model where dealings with GMOs would be classified into authorisation pathways according to the level of risk they pose, a model referred to as the risk-tiering framework.

GTA broadly agrees with the recommendations and supports the move to a risk tiering, science-based approach which will assist to modernise the ACT and ensure it is fit for purpose now and into the future. GTA believes it is very important that the scheme is flexible and able to deal with future developments and challenges such as plant breeding innovations.

GTA believes that the revised structure of the scheme will ensure there is sufficient flexibility to move dealings with GMOs between authorisation categories based on identification of new risks, a history of safe use, and other additional factors. GTA also supports the intent of the changes to reduce regulatory burden through streamlining application processes and regulatory requirements.

3. GMO Register

GTA would like to make specific comment in relation to the proposed changes to the GMO register and consultation question in regard to What should be considered for regulations to prescribe criteria for GMO dealings eligible for inclusion on the GMO Register?

The GMO Register is a listing of GMOs that the Office of Gene technology Regulator (OGTR) has classified as posing minimal risk to people's health or environmental safety. Products entered onto the GMO Register enables anyone to engage in activity without needing a license or other authorisation under the ACT. Currently, the GMO Register includes dealings with GMOs that have been deemed low-risk by the OGTR in terms of human health and environmental impact. For a dealing to be listed, it must have previously been authorised by a license under the ACT.

The proposed amendments aim to expand the scope of the GMO Register by allowing the OGTR to include dealings authorised by a GMO permit or those that meet criteria specified by the Gene Technology Regulations. This would enable a broader array of dealings to be registered, potentially easing regulatory obligations for certain GMO activities. These changes are designed to create a more adaptable and proportionate regulatory framework and by broadening the range of dealings eligible for the Register, the amendments seek to reduce regulatory demands while still safeguarding human health and the environment.

While GTA supports this move, we have concerns about the fact that there is no requirement for the Regulator to consult stakeholders prior to listing a GMO on the Register, and the decision is solely based on considerations of human health and environmental safety. While recognising that the GMOs to be listed on the GM Register pose low risks to human health and the environment, there could be trade and market access and supply chain implications for the grain industry if not properly communicated and managed through responsible stewardship.

We recognise (and support) that when undertaking a GMO risk assessment, the OGTR quite rightly does not take non-scientific factors such as trade and market access into account. However, when placing GMOs on the GMO Register, whilst the Regulator may not have concerns from a human health and environmental safety perspective, there may need to be some consideration of the stewardship role played by the original GMO Licence holder. There should be some communication protocol of the proposed changes to ensure that these occur in a way that is trade facilitative and to allow appropriate industry stewardship activities to be implemented should they deemed necessary.

GTA supports a self-regulatory approach wherever practical and has developed the "Grain Industry Stewardship Framework for New Technologies" through broad consultation with the industry. This Framework is focused on ensuring new technologies are brought to market in a trade facilitative way and a key principle of the Framework is early notification which when applied to the GM register would see notification ahead of the change so the industry can appropriately communicate with its customers.

While we are supportive of the changes to the GMO Register, we believe that there should be a notification/consultation phase so that the industry can assess implications and work with the technology proponents and/or markets to ensure that there is no disruption to trade.

4. Summary

GTA is pleased to see progress on the proposed amendments to the Gene Technology Act. GTA broadly agrees with the recommendations and supports the move to a risk tiering, science-based approach which will assist to modernise the ACT and ensure it is fit for purpose now and into the future.

Specifically, in relation to changes to the GMO Register, GTA would like to see a notification/ consultation step in place so that the industry can utilise its self-regulatory framework to ensure that the industry has appropriate time to ensure that any stewardship requirements have been considered and can be implemented as required.

Yours faithfully,

POSL
